⚠️ To pass the module, it is mandatory to score at least 5 out of 10 points in both milestones and the final assessment, as the Learning Outcomes (LOs) are evaluated in all of them. If they are not passed, they will have to be retaken in the extraordinary examination session. The second milestone, being group-based, will be adapted so that it can be completed and evaluated individually in that extraordinary examination session. By law, students are allowed a maximum of 4 attempts before they must take the exam as an independent candidate.

⚠️ You need a 7 or higher in English subjects to study in York, access Erasmus or work in the U.S.

Attendance and Continuous Assessment Rules

Loss of 15% in a term

If the student exceeds 15% absences in a term, they must sit the checkpoints or tasks completed during that period in the extraordinary examination session, even if they had previously passed some of them.

Loss of 20% in the full course

If the absence rate exceeds 20% over the entire course, the student must sit all tasks in the extraordinary examination session, even if they had already passed some of them.

If the student do not pass in the extraordinary examination session

The student would have to re-enrol in a later course in order to be assessed again.

ACTIVITY

Find Real Accommodation Online

You have just arrived in an English-speaking country. You need a place to stay for at least 3 months.

Search for real accommodation using websites such as:

- SpareRoom
- Rightmove
- Zoopla
- Craigslist

ACTIVITY

Find 2 realistic options and complete the following:

- Location
- Price per month
- Type of accommodation (flatshare, studio, etc.)
- What is included (bills, internet, etc.)
- Advantages
- Disadvantages

ACTIVITY

Compare your two options and decide:

- Which one is better for you? Why?
- What compromises are you making?
- What are your priorities (price, location, comfort, etc.)?

Be ready to explain your decision.

READING ACTIVITY

Complete with the correct form of these words.

bill – deposit – dorm/dormitory – flat/house hunt – flat/house share – flatmate – fully furnished – halls of residence – homestay – host – landlord/landlady – lodger – move in

Staying at home: The simplest option, but maybe you can't or you want to experience independent living.

(a) _____: This accommodation type is popular for students in their first year. Usually you'll be on, or near, the campus, living with other students. Americans usually call this type of accommodation (b) _____, based on the idea that you just sleep there.

(c) _____: This is typical in the second year of university. You and a few friends may need to (d) _____ for a while before you find the perfect place to live together. It's a good idea to find a place that is (e) _____ so that you don't need to buy anything big like a fridge. When you find a place you like, you'll probably have to put down a (f) _____ to reserve it before you actually (g) _____ and start living there. It's essential to speak to the owner of the house, the (h) _____, to check if all your (i) _____, like water and electricity, are included.

Also, if something breaks or stops working, who will repair it? Will it be the owner or you? Remember to all help with cleaning the place you rent. Most arguments with (j) _____ start that way!

Renting a room in someone's house: If you're on your own and can't afford a place of your own, you may want to become a (k) _____, living in someone else's house. It's worth finding out how much contact you'll have with the owner and whether you can share common spaces like the kitchen or living room. If you're studying abroad, a (l) _____ like this can be useful because you can practise speaking the language with your (m) _____ family.

VOCABULARY

You are already looking for a flat to rent.

You find several good options online, but the rent is not the only thing you need to think about.

Before choosing, you start asking yourself:

- How much will I really spend every month?
- What extra costs will I have?

Discuss in pairs: Make a list of all the possible expenses related to living in a flat.

VOCABULARY ACTIVITY

VOCABULARY ACTIVITY – Match column A with column B.

1. Rent	2. Deposit
3. Utilities	4. Electricity bill
5. Water charges	6. Maintenance fees
7. Internet service provider (ISP)	8. Heating costs

a. A refundable amount paid in advance to secure the property	b. A regular payment covering the use of energy for lighting and appliances
c. Costs related to the general upkeep and repair of the property	d. A fixed monthly payment made to occupy a property
e. Services such as gas, electricity, and water supplied to a home	f. Payment for the supply and consumption of water
g. A company that provides access to the internet	h. Expenses related to keeping the property warm, especially in winter

WRITING ACTIVITY

You have just moved to an English-speaking country for work or studies. After spending a few days in temporary accommodation, you have found an apartment online that you are interested in.

Write an email to the landlord or property manager asking for more information (200 words)

WRITING — STRUCTURE

Follow this structure:

Salutation

Dear Mr. O'Connell, / Dear Mrs. Thompson, / Dear Ms. [Last Name], (Best if the marital status of a woman is unknown) / Dear Property Manager / Dear Landlord, (If the specific name is unknown)

Paragraph 1: Introduce yourself

"My name is [Name] and I am writing to you because I have recently moved to [City] to study/work." / "I am a [profession/student] from [Country] and I will be relocating to the area next month for a new job opportunity." / "I am currently looking for accommodation in [City] as I will be spending the next six months here for an internship."

Paragraph 2: Mention the property & Ask questions

Where you saw it + specific inquiries about the property, price and bills, deposit and contract, availability, and furniture included.

Paragraph 3: Arrange a viewing & Polite close

Proposing a visit + polite ending.

Paragraph 4: Sign-off

Yours sincerely, (Use this if you started with a specific name, e.g., Dear Mr. O'Connell) / Yours faithfully, (Use this if you started with Dear Sir/Madam or Property Manager) / Kind regards, / Best regards, (Slightly less formal but widely acceptable in modern email correspondence)

WRITING — USEFUL EXPRESSIONS

Useful expressions:

Opening

- I am writing to enquire about the property advertised on…
- I recently came across your listing and I am very interested in…
- I would like to request further information regarding…

Asking for information

- Could you please let me know if bills are included?
- I would appreciate it if you could clarify…
- I was wondering whether the flat is still available
- Could you provide more details about the contract conditions?

Explaining your situation

- I am currently working/studying as…
- I am looking for long-term/short-term accommodation
- I consider myself a responsible and reliable tenant

Negotiating politely

- Would it be possible to include… in the rent?
- I was wondering if there is any flexibility regarding the price
- I would be willing to… if…

WRITING — MODEL

Writing model:

Dear [Landlord's Name or Property Manager],

I am writing to express my strong interest in the apartment currently advertised for rent at [Property Address]. Having reviewed the listing online, I believe the property aligns perfectly with what I am looking for. However, I would highly appreciate it if you could clarify a few specific details before we proceed further.

Firstly, could you please confirm whether utility bills, such as water, electricity, and high-speed internet, are included in the monthly rent, or if they are billed separately? Additionally, I would like to know if the building offers any designated parking spaces or secure bicycle storage, as this is a priority for my daily commute.

Lastly, regarding the contractual terms, could you specify the minimum lease duration required and the exact amount expected for the security deposit?

Should the property still be available, I would be grateful to arrange a viewing at your earliest convenience, preferably later this week. Thank you very much for your time and assistance. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours sincerely,
Mirella Montero

SPEAKING — PRACTICE

Let's practice – At the hotel

- Which three hotel facilities are essential for you when choosing accommodation? Why?
- Which facilities shown in the next picture would you use most frequently during your stay?
- Which hotel facility do you consider unnecessary? Explain your answer.

SPEAKING — ROLE PLAY

SPEAKING ACTIVITY – THE OVERBOOKED HOTEL

You have just arrived at the prestigious Four Seasons Hotel after a very long and exhausting journey. You are ready to check in, drop your bags, and relax. But there is a nightmare scenario: the hotel is overbooked! Due to a major system failure, there are more guests than beds.

However, there is a catch... there is exactly ONE Luxury Suite left available for tonight.

Your Mission AS A GUEST → You have exactly 2 minutes in a face-to-face negotiation to convince the receptionist that YOUR situation is the most urgent, critical, or important, and that YOU deserve the key to that final room.

Your Mission AS A RECEPTIONIST → Listen to the guest and ask him/her questions. Choose the best guest according to what they are saying.

SPEAKING — ROLE PLAY

Useful vocabulary:

"I am entitled to this room; my confirmation email guarantees it."

"This is an absolute emergency. Lives and fortunes are at stake here!"

"I strongly urge you to reconsider, or I will be forced to take legal action."

"Can we find a compromise? Surely a hotel of this caliber can compensate me."

"If you accommodate me tonight, I will personally praise your service to corporate."

"It is absolutely crucial that you understand the gravity of my situation."

As a Receptionist (Crisis Management & De-escalation)

"I completely empathize with your situation, however..."

"Let's look at the available alternatives to resolve this matter."

"I assure you we are doing everything in our power to assist you."

"To defuse the situation, I can offer you a complimentary spa voucher while you wait."

"I understand you are upset, but please bear with me while I investigate."

"My hands are tied regarding the suite, but I can upgrade your future stays."

READING ACTIVITY

READING (I)

You are going to read a newspaper article about the advantages and disadvantages of sharing accommodation while studying abroad.

SHARING A FLAT ABROAD: A SMART CHOICE OR AN UNNECESSARY CHALLENGE?

For thousands of international students every year, studying abroad represents far more than simply attending classes in another country. It is often the first time they live independently, manage their own finances, and adapt to a completely different cultural environment. Among the many decisions students must make before beginning this experience, choosing accommodation is one of the most important. While some students decide to live alone, many choose to share a flat with roommates in order to reduce costs and avoid loneliness. However, although shared accommodation can be rewarding, it also comes with significant challenges that are sometimes overlooked.

One of the biggest advantages of having a roommate while studying abroad is undoubtedly the financial benefit. In major international cities such as London, Amsterdam, Dublin, or Sydney, rent prices have reached record levels in recent years. For many students, renting a private apartment is simply unrealistic. Sharing accommodation allows students to divide rent, electricity bills, internet costs, and even groceries, making life abroad considerably more affordable. In some cases, students are able to live in better neighbourhoods or closer to their universities because they split expenses with others.

READING ACTIVITY

READING (II)

Beyond financial savings, shared accommodation can also provide emotional and social support. Moving abroad can be an overwhelming experience, particularly during the first few months. Many international students struggle with homesickness, culture shock, or difficulties adapting to a new language. Having flatmates can make this transition easier, especially when roommates are friendly and supportive. Simple activities such as cooking together, exploring the city, or discussing daily problems can help students feel less isolated.

In multicultural flats, students may also gain valuable intercultural experience. Living with people from different countries often exposes students to new traditions, perspectives, and ways of communicating. Experts believe these interactions can improve cultural awareness, tolerance, and even professional skills that are increasingly valued in international workplaces. In fact, many students claim they learned as much from their roommates as they did from their university courses.

Nevertheless, sharing a flat is not always a positive experience. Living with strangers can quickly become stressful if there are major differences in personality or lifestyle. Conflicts frequently arise over issues such as cleaning responsibilities, noise levels, overnight guests, or unpaid bills. While some students prefer a quiet and organised environment, others may have completely different habits or schedules. These differences can create tension and make daily life uncomfortable.

READING ACTIVITY

READING (III)

Another common disadvantage is the lack of privacy. Students who are accustomed to having personal space may find it difficult to share kitchens, bathrooms, or living areas with several people. In crowded apartments, finding time to study peacefully or simply relax alone can become challenging. Furthermore, disagreements between roommates may sometimes escalate into serious arguments that negatively affect mental health and academic performance.

Social media has also contributed to unrealistic expectations about shared accommodation. Online videos often portray student life abroad as exciting and glamorous, showing groups of friends enjoying perfect apartments and constant social activities. In reality, many students discover that sharing a flat requires patience, communication, and compromise on a daily basis.

Despite these disadvantages, many former international students still describe shared accommodation as one of the most memorable parts of their experience abroad. Living with others often teaches important life skills such as independence, responsibility, conflict resolution, and teamwork. Although sharing a flat may not always be easy, it frequently helps students grow both personally and professionally.

As the number of students studying abroad continues to increase worldwide, shared accommodation is likely to remain one of the most common housing options. Whether it becomes a positive or negative experience often depends not only on the apartment itself, but also on the people sharing it. READING ACTIVITY

For questions 1–10, find words or expressions in the text which have a similar meaning to the definitions provided.

1. Extremely difficult or impossible to achieve → _____
2. Feeling unhappy because you miss your home → _____
3. Disagreements or arguments → _____
4. Not realistic or exaggeratedly perfect → _____
5. To become larger or more serious → _____
6. The ability to understand and accept differences → _____
7. The state of being alone or separated from others → _____
8. A solution where costs are divided among several people → _____
9. The ability to solve problems peacefully with others → _____
10. A place where someone lives temporarily → _____

SPEAKING — ROLE PLAY

Role Play 1 – Dealing with a Problematic Flatmate

Situation:

You are sharing a flat abroad. Recently, there have been several problems in the apartment, including noise late at night, unpaid bills, and cleaning issues. One student is frustrated and wants to discuss the situation, while the other believes the problems are being exaggerated.

Objective: Reach an agreement.

SPEAKING — ROLE PLAY

Student A

- You are annoyed because your flatmate is often noisy at night.
- The kitchen and bathroom are usually left dirty.
- Some utility bills have not been paid on time.
- You want to establish clear rules for the apartment.
- Try to remain polite but firm.

SPEAKING — ROLE PLAY

Student B

- You think Student A is overreacting.
- You have been very busy with university and work.
- You believe sharing a flat requires flexibility and tolerance.
- You are willing to compromise, but not accept all the blame.
- Suggest realistic solutions.

SPEAKING — ROLE PLAY

Role Play 2 – Convincing a Landlord to Rent You the Flat

Situation:

You have found an apartment online in an English-speaking country. The landlord is unsure whether to rent the flat to students because of previous bad experiences. You must convince them that you would be responsible tenants.

Objective:

Conduct a professional conversation and negotiate the rental conditions.

SPEAKING — ROLE PLAY

Student A – Prospective Tenant

- Introduce yourself and explain why you are studying abroad.
- Explain your financial situation and how you will pay rent.
- Mention your habits and lifestyle.
- Respond professionally to the landlord's concerns.
- Ask questions about the flat and the contract.

SPEAKING — ROLE PLAY

Student B – Landlord

- You are worried about noise, parties, and late payments.
- Ask about the tenant's studies, job, and daily routine.
- Explain the rules of the apartment.
- Ask for references or guarantees.
- Decide whether the tenant seems trustworthy.

WRITING ACTIVITY

Lease Extension Agreement

Read the sample Lease Extension Agreement. Imagine that the landlord and tenant have agreed to continue the tenancy, but some of the original conditions have changed.

Using the sample as a model, draft a short Tenancy Agreement Amendment. Include:

- The new rent
- The effective date
- Any changes to the original terms
- The signatures of both parties

Sample document: https://www.nationalparalegal.edu/documentmovies/realproperty/ext_lease/main.pdf

MILESTONE 1

Milestone 1: Foreigners in Spain

Imagine that a group of international visitors has recently arrived in Spain and would like to discover the country beyond the most typical tourist destinations.

In groups, you will choose one Spanish region and prepare an interactive workshop to introduce it to your foreign visitors.

Your aim is not simply to give a presentation — reading is not allowed. You must help your audience experience, understand and connect with the region through an engaging activity. It must last around 5 minutes.

MILESTONE 1 — PART 1

Part 1: Introduce the Region

During the first part of the workshop, introduce the region and explain some of its most interesting features. You may include information about:

- Why should someone visit your region?
- What makes your region different from other parts of Spain?
- What should a foreign visitor definitely experience there?
- What might surprise a foreigner about your region?
- What is one thing visitors should know before travelling there?
- What local tradition, place or experience best represents your region?

This part must be submitted through the corresponding assignment on Blackboard, by the deadline and following the required submission guidelines. (0.25 tenths)

MILESTONE 1 — PART 2

Part 2: Interactive Workshop Activity

Then, organise a practical and interactive activity in which foreign visitors must actively participate. Your workshop could include, for example, a traditional game, a cultural quiz, a food-related activity, a role-play, a local celebration, a language challenge, a mystery or legend, a survival challenge for tourists, or another original activity connected with your region.

Your workshop must:

- Introduce the region clearly to an international audience.
- Use English throughout the activity. Reading is not allowed.
- Include relevant cultural information.
- Explain vocabulary or cultural concepts that foreigners may not know.
- Include an interactive activity for the participants.
- Give clear instructions in English.
- Encourage interaction between the presenters and the visitors.
- Give every member of the group an active speaking role.
- Use visual or physical materials when appropriate.
- Make the visitors feel that they have experienced a small part of the region.

This part must be submitted through the corresponding assignment on Blackboard, by the deadline and following the required submission guidelines. (0.25 tenths)

Remember: you are not a travel agency trying to sell a destination. Your goal is to become cultural hosts and create an experience that helps your visitors understand what makes your region unique. Reading is not allowed during the workshop.

MILESTONE 1 — VISITORS

Visitors' Participation

Being a visitor is also an active part of the project. During each workshop, visitors must listen carefully and ask questions to the presenters about the region, the activity or the information presented.

Each visitor must:

- Ask at least one relevant question during the workshops.
- Interact with the presenters when invited to participate.
- Show interest and contribute appropriately to the activity.
- Use English when asking questions or making comments.

Your participation as a visitor will also be taken into account as part of your individual participation mark.

Possible questions include:

- What would you recommend for a first visit?
- What is the best time of year to go there?
- Is there anything tourists should avoid doing?
- What is your favourite place or tradition from this region?
- How expensive is it compared with other parts of Spain?

Important: Simply attending the workshops is not enough. You are expected to participate, interact and ask questions.

MILESTONE 1

Final Challenge

What have I discovered about this region that I did not know before?

EVALUATION RUBRIC

EVALUATION RUBRIC: FINAL WORKSHOP PRESENTATION (2.0 POINTS)

1. Regional Cultural Presentation (0.5 pts)

Insufficient (0%): Reads directly from slides/notes or fails to convey cultural aspects.

In Development (50%): Provides a superficial/overly theoretical overview. Shows partial reliance on notes or reading.
